

$5 Million, 10-Year Development Plan And Broader 3-Year Degree Program

Traditional Two-Year Plan Abolished

As plans progress for bolstering the curriculum and expanding campus facilities, the long standing two-year and the two-and-one-half year degree programs of the School of Secretarial Science and the School of Business Administration have been discontinued. President Henry L. Jacobs has announced that they will be replaced by fall of 1961 with a new and broader three-year degree program for each school. The extended program includes subject matter which was not previously offered, such as biology, science, government, and world literature.

A new two-year college will be established in the School of Secretarial Science to offer an associate degree in secretarial science and a one-year diploma program. The college preparatory division, set up after World War II, will be discontinued in February.

Change in College Year

The 1961 college year will comprise a fall and spring semester, with an optional summer semester. The fall semester will begin September 12 and end January 12. The spring semester will begin January 22 and end May 18. A summer semester will begin May 23 and end July 18. Students who do not wish to attend summer sessions may extend their college program to four years, rather than complete their degree work in three years.

Development Program

Vice President E. Gardner Jacobs has announced that the College will initiate a ten-year, $5,000,000 development program. The most recent campus building to be placed in use is Gardner Hall, the new men's dormitory, which was opened at the beginning of this school year. A six-classroom building, estimated to cost $170,000 will be under construction within the next month on land recently acquired south of the Administration Building on Hope Street. It is to be so constructed that four more classrooms will be added as a second floor at a later date.

Other aspects in the development program will provide a $2,000,000 endowment fund for faculty salaries and student aid, either a larger gymnasium or a new auditorium, expansion of the dining hall, air conditioning major campus buildings, a new dormitory for women, and acquisition of land for student parking. The Henry L. Jacobs Library, now located on the ground level of Jacobs Hall, will be enlarged in 1961 to add reading rooms and an audio-visual room, or will be moved into a separate building near the present campus.

The intent of the many changes is to assure that the College physical plant and curriculum will be acceptable for consideration for its long-sought accreditation as a specialized professional school by the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The College has been cognizant of the accreditation issue for several years, and Vice President Jacobs has stated, "Our ultimate aim is to achieve accreditation as soon as possible, to improve the quality of our students continually, and to improve our courses and plant until we are the best college of our kind in New England. By next fall I believe Bryant College should have everything to meet the requirements of accreditation."

ADMINISTRATIVE AND FACULTY APPOINTMENTS

President Henry L. Jacobs has announced the following administrative and faculty appointments.

Dean of Men William D. Fales held a position of similar responsibility at the Rhode Island School of Design. He also taught at R.I.S.D. and at one time was the Director of the Textile School. Dean Fales will continue to serve as Chairman of the Industrial Code Committee for Safety and Health in Industry for Rhode Island.

Dean of Admissions Paul G. Buchanan is a past president of the Boston Teachers Alliance. He taught in the Boston public school system, at Suffolk University, and at Calvin Coolidge College.

FARMAKIS, '51 EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF TIRE COMPANY

In May of this year an announcement was made by Pirelli-International of the formation of a new industry for Greece, a tire factory that not so many years ago was a dream project of Nicholas E. Farmakis, a 1951 Business Administration major.

Since transport is essential to the development of any country, it is basic that a tire industry would become a part of the economic development of Greece. Director General of Pirelli-International, Dr. Vittorio Rostagno, spoke at the completion of the preparatory phase of the establishment of Pirelli (Hellas) at a press conference in the Kings Park Hotel, Athens. He credited the realization of the tire factory to be constructed in Patras, Greece, to Mr. Farmakis.

The group of companies that comprise the Pirelli empire is over 88 years old, and is diversified. They manufacture supertension cables, rubber products, plastics, special textiles, and synthetics. Pirelli has over thirty factories in Italy, with others in Spain, England, and Argentina.

As Executive Director of the Pirelli enterprise in Greece, Nicholas worked closely with the Greek authorities to plan the initial phase of the new tire industry. Pirelli-Hellas is the first great foreign industry to be established in Greece under recent legislation intended to encourage industrial development by foreign capital. It was also necessary that he work in association with the municipal authorities in the city of Patras, where land was acquired for the new plant. The plant will employ 500 when it opens and have a yearly production of 240,000 units.

Ambassadors of Italy and Switzerland and representatives of Greek industrial banking were present at the press conference at which Nicholas presented the projected plans of Pirelli-Hellas.

R. Cordeiro, '58; Edward Theberge, '58; Marcel Robert, '59.

Mr. Charles B. Cornelius, a Vice President of Hospital Trust Company, is now serving as a member of the Board of Trustees at Bryant.
